

Re-Run Session

INCOME FROM LETTING REAL PROPERTIES;

for investment holding companies and other investors

Date: 30 October 2013 | Event Code: WS/091

Venue: CTIM Training Room, Kuala Lumpur | Time: 9.00am - 5.00pm

BENEFITS TO PARTICIPANTS

- Familiarise with details of the tax law relating to income from letting real property
- Taking active steps to reclassify letting of real property to business income that may produce useful tax advantages
- Understand the rules to help to mitigate tax in other ways as well as to avoid errors leading to costly penalties

Income from letting real property, often known as rental or lease income, is one of the few remaining classes of income that rarely enjoys any tax exemption. The law in this area is complex and has become more so in the last few years. Self-assessment requires the taxpayer to know the law as well as the public rulings and ignorance is no excuse. Neither is it in the interests of the taxpayer to be so unaware of the fundamentals of property income taxation that he pays more tax than he ought to. Different rules apply to different situations and to different persons. For instance, income from letting real property is not necessarily taxed as investment income.

COURSE CONTENTS

The course covers the following key areas:

- Meaning of real property
- Distinction between investment holding companies and other investors
- Circumstances in which rental income is treated as a business source and the circumstances when it is not
- Benefits of having rental income as a business source
- Date of commencement of the source
- Multiple let properties and treatment as a single source
- Treatment of rent in advance or in arrear
- Deductibility of expenses, including interest, that relate to letting of real properties
- Deductions and capital allowances for furniture, air-conditioners and other plant or machinery provided by the lessor.
- Industrial building allowance for lessors and lessees
- Treatment of unlisted investment holding companies
- Treatment of listed investment holding companies
- Tax implications when the following changes occur:
 - ~ Rental income becomes a business source and vice versa.
 - ~ A company becomes an investment holding company and vice versa.
 - ~ An unlisted investment holding company becomes listed and vice versa.

WHO SHOULD BE A PARTICIPANT

- Tax practitioners
- Real property investors
- Solicitors and other legal personnel
- Financial controllers and financial managers
